

Appendix I – Analysis of Other Actions Regarding Cumulative Impacts

Other Actions – Past, Present, and Reasonably Foreseeable – and their Effect on Each Resource Telephone interviews with city and county planners identified reasonably foreseeable residential and mixed-use development projects within their respective jurisdictions. Additionally, the 2019-2022 Statewide Transportation Improvement Plan (STIP) and a list of past, present, and future ARDOT projects (provided by ARDOT) identified additional “other actions”, which are listed in the tables on the following page.

Impacts to water resources and wildlife habitat was estimated for each project. Impacts to streams and wetlands were calculated using USFWS National Wetlands Inventory (NWI) data for the HUC12 watershed units within the project area. These numbers are likely lower than the actual acreages of wetlands present. Wildlife habitat impacts were calculated using 2016 (most recent year available) data from the National Land Cover Database (NLCD) for the three counties. These numbers are likely higher than the actual habitat present given the data is four years old and only intended to be approximations.
